Enrollment is still open for summer classes at the People's Art Center of the Museum of Modern Art, 21 West 53 Street. "One Hundred and Fifty Years of Modern Art," a series of informal talks illustrated with color slides, will be held for adults on six Tuesday and Thursday evenings, beginning June 7. Another six-session lecture course in June will consist of group visits to the Italian, Dutch, Spanish and French Collections in the Metropolitan Museum, and to the Permanent Collection in the Museum of Modern Art. A. L. Chanin will conduct the tours.

Both in June and July, adults may study beginning painting and clay modelling from the human figure. "Outdoor Sketching and Painting" will meet at various locations in the city - markets, bridges and construction projects. All adult classes are given primarily for those interested in art for personal satisfaction as a leisure-time activity.

Children's classes, organized by age group, study painting, clay work, collage and three-dimensional construction.

For information or registration, call the Museum at CI 5-8900.

Further information is available from Herbert Bronstein, Assistant Publicity Director, Museum of Modern Art, 21 West 53 Street, New York. CI 5-8900.
