The Museum of Modern Art, 11 West 53 Street, announces that its schedule of exhibitions for the season 1936-37 has been revised, principally in the architecture exhibition to be held in mid-winter. The Exhibition of American Architecture which was to have covered the past five years in that field has been postponed to another season. Within the past two years the Museum has had several showings of contemporary architecture in this country including Modern Architecture in California in the fall of 1935 and Architecture in Government Housing in June, 1936. For the season 1936-37, instead of the American Architecture Exhibition, the Museum will hold an Exhibition of Modern English Architecture from January 27 to February 21. With it will be shown an Exhibition of Posters by Edward McKnight Kauffer, the Californian artist who has lived and worked in London since the war.

Current at the Museum is New Horizons in American Art, the exhibition of outstanding work done by artists on the Federal Art Project throughout the country. This exhibition closes at six p.m. Monday, October 12.

The revised schedule for the 1936-37 season is as follows:

- Oct. 21 - Nov. 22 JOHN MARIN: RETROSPECTIVE EXHIBITION -- Exhibition of paintings, watercolors, drawings and etchings by the American artist, John Marin. The works to be shown will be selected by Alfred Stieglitz.
- Dec. 2 - Jan. 17 SURREALISM AND FANTASTIC ART -- This exhibition will include not only the work of the Surrealist group in Paris and some of their followers in other countries but also the work of artists of related tendencies both of the present day and of the past. Alfred H. Barr, Jr., Director of the Museum, is preparing this exhibition. He spent several months abroad this summer collecting European material and since his return has
