SPECIAL TEACHER-ORIENTATION TOURS OF NEW JAPANESE PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBITION

At The Museum of Modern Art a special orientation session for junior and senior high school teachers scheduling visits to the exhibition "New Japanese Photography" will be conducted by Dennis Longwell, Assistant Curator, Department of Photography, on Thursday, April 11, at 4 pm, and will be repeated the following Thursday, April 18, at the same time.

The discussion will begin with a brief introduction to looking at photographs in the Edward Steichen galleries on the 3rd floor where selections from the Museum's Photography Collection are on view. It will proceed to the first floor for a tour through the "New Japanese Photography" exhibition. A grant from the School Art League has made it possible for the Museum to give each participant a copy of "Looking at Photographs: 100 Pictures from the Collection of The Museum of Modern Art," by John Szarkowski, Director of the Department of Photography.

As the sessions must be limited in size, arrangements should be made in advance by telephoning the Museum's Education Office (956-7540) between 10 am and 2 pm.

These tours are an extension of the Museum's regular teacher orientation program for junior and senior high school teachers, of all subjects. The free weekly tours in the painting and sculpture galleries, conducted by Sylvia Milgram, Teacher-Coordinator for the Bureau of Art of the New York City Board of Education, are designed to make student group visits a more productive and enjoyable experience by helping teachers prepare in advance of their class visits. All teachers attending these sessions receive a copy of "An Invitation to See: 125 Paintings from The Museum of Modern Art."

Additional information available from Linda Gordon, Associate Director, Department of Public Information, The Museum of Modern Art, 11 W. 53 St., New York, NY 10019. Phone: (212) 956-2648.
