"PICTURE THIS:" SPECIAL STUDENT EVENING AT THE MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

"PICTURE THIS," a special evening for high school and college students exploring the arts of photography, video, and holography, is being sponsored by the Junior Council of The Museum of Modern Art, on Friday, February 4, 1977 from 7-10 p.m. Students are encouraged to bring their cameras and hand-held video equipment so that they may become totally involved in this fun and unusual evening.

There will be continuous showings on giant Advent screens of recent video works by Doug Davis, Nam June Paik, Vito Acconci, and others. Following the viewings, students can meet and discuss the works with the artists. Charlotte Moorman and Jared Bark, who utilize video and other visual media in their work, will perform.

In addition, the new Museum of Holography and individual artists have lent some 20 holograms--photographic reproductions in third dimension--for the evening. This collection of transmission, reflection, white light integral, and multiplex holograms was acclaimed by the New York Times and Village Voice. The Harry Callahan photography exhibition, which closes February 8, will be open to the students this evening as well as all the galleries.

"PICTURE THIS" is made possible by a grant from the Mobil Foundation Inc. Tickets may be purchased in advance at the Membership Desk at the Museum. Admission with a Student MoMA Pass is $1.50 and for non-members $2.00 (student I.D. required). For additional information, call (212) 956-6112.
