NEW TRUSTEES AT THE MUSEUM OF MODERN ART

Ronald S. Lauder, Corporate Vice President of Estee Lauder; John Parkinson III, Vice President of Citibank, North America; Mrs. Albrecht Saalfield; and R.L.B. Tobin have been elected new Trustees of The Museum of Modern Art. William S. Paley, Chairman of the Board, announced today.

Ronald Lauder, a member of the Museum's Trustee Committee on Drawings, collects 19th- and 20th-century German art and master drawings. He was educated at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, the University of Paris, and received his Master's Degree from the University of Brussels. He has worked for Estee Lauder Inc. since 1966, first in Belgium and France, and since 1968, in the company's New York headquarters.

John Parkinson III, who is Treasurer of The Museum of Modern Art's International Council and a member of the Museum's Trustee Committee on Photography, graduated from Harvard, and since 1959 has been associated with First National City Bank. As a member of their International Banking Group, he spent seven years in Venezuela and Colombia, and from 1974 to 1976 he established and supervised the bank's office in Paris.

Mrs. Albrecht Saalfield is an active collector of modern art and has been a member of the Museum's Trustee Committee on Painting and Sculpture since 1973. She became a member of the International Council in 1967 and now serves on the Board of Directors.

R.L.B. Tobin, a member of the Museum's International Council since 1964, is a member of the Board of Managing Directors of the Metropolitan Opera and of the Opera Company of Boston. He has directed exhibitions at museums in the United States and abroad, including a retrospective of Eugene Berman and "Three Centuries of Theatre Design." In addition to stage designs, he collects the work of American contemporary artists and rare books.
