Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr. is at present a Trustee of the Museum of Modern Art and has served in the capacity of Vice-President and Treasurer. Her son, Nelson A. Rockefeller, was made President of the Museum last May. Mrs. Rockefeller was one of the founders of the Museum in 1929 and in May 1935 gave the Museum her collection of modern paintings, drawings and watercolors, which consisted of 181 objects, the work of 71 American and foreign artists, the Americans greatly predominating in numbers and in works included in the group.
